

How can I write about my research in The Conversation Canada?

Writing for The Conversation Canada is a great way to communicate your research to the broader public -- it's a great avenue to help build profile for your research and find potential collaborators, funding opportunities, and graduate students – and a pretty easy, enjoyable process. (What is the Conversation Canada?).

- Create a pitch,
- Submit the pitch,
- With the help of editors at Research Profile and Impact and editors at the Conversation, write your article.

There is support available to you at every step.

Login to continue reading

Related Articles

- What is the Research Profile and Impact unit?
- What is The Conversation Canada?
- Who can write for The Conversation Canada?
- How can I get my research featured in the Young Innovators series?
- What is the Young Innovators series?
- My research is about to be published, how do I get help promoting it?
- I have received a call from a journalist about my research, how do I get help in responding?
- Who is my Research Support Specialist or Contract Specialist?
- Who approves my research application and awarded research funding?
- What is a Continuous Research Fund \(CRF\)?

Provide feedback