

What are my responsibilities as a Principal Investigator?

All Principal Investigators (PI) and their named delegate(s) must operate in compliance with the set terms and conditions set by the Funder, relevant laws and regulations, the best practices of the PI's academic discipline, as well as applicable university policies and procedures (e.g. Research Administration Procedures Policy).

Login to continue reading

Related Articles

- How will my leave from the university affect my eligibility to keep my research funding?
- How will a change to my appointment or status affect my eligibility to hold my research funding?
- I have relocated to the university how can I transfer my funded research projects here?
- I am leaving the university how can I bring my research funding with me?
- What happens when my already-established research project is awarded additional funding?
- How do I extend my research project?
- What is the difference between a student stipend and salary?
- How can I sub-contract or transfer research funding between researchers or institutions?
- Paid maternity/parental leave for students and postdoctoral fellows paid from Tri-Agency grants
- What is a Continuous Research Fund \(CRF\)?

Provide feedback